

Scheme		MOE Independent School Bursary (ISB)
Income eligibility criteria and benefits	Monthly gross household income (GHI) ≤$4,000, or a monthly per capita income (PCI) ≤$1,000	Secondary level 100% subsidy of school, miscellaneous and examination* fees - Free textbooks and school attire - Meal subsidies that pay for 10 meals per school week - Public transport subsidy of $21 per month or up to $252 per annum Junior College (JC) level 100% subsidy of school, miscellaneous and examination* fees $1,600 annual bursary (inclusive of public transport subsidy) *if student is enrolled in the International Baccalaureate Diploma Programme (IBDP) in government-funded schools
	GHI $4,001 - $5,500 or PCI $1,001 - $1,375	Student pays same fee as student studying in Government and Government-Aided Schools (GGAS)
	GHI $5,501 - $9,000 or PCI $1,376 - $2,250	Student pays 1.5x GGAS fee
	GHI $9,001 - $12,000 or PCI $2,251 - $3,000	Student receives subsidy of 33% of school and miscellaneous fees
How to apply		You can apply online via Student Finance System (SFS) using your SingPass. If you have children in different general education* schools*, you only need to submit one application. You will be informed of the application outcome via SFS. * Government and government-aided schools, Independent schools, Specialised schools and some specialised independent schools (NUS High School of Mathematics and Science and the School of Science and Technology) Note: If your child is studying in a special education school, School of the Arts or Singapore Sports School, please check with his/her school separately on the available subsidy schemes and mode of application.
Additional financial assistance		If you are not eligible for MOE FAS, your children's schools will automatically consider supporting your children through their school-based financial assistance scheme. This is evaluated by the respective schools on a case-by-case basis. There is no need to make a separate application for school-based financial assistance, and the schools will inform you of the outcome via SFS.